

A program for family, friends and carers

Supporting someone experiencing suicidal distress or following a suicide attempt in country SA.

When you are supporting someone, your first concern is often for their wellbeing. However, taking care of your own mental health is equally important.

An  EVERYMIND program

About Minds Together

Minds Together is a free, evidence-based program designed to build your skills and knowledge to:

- Support someone experiencing suicidal distress: Learn to recognise the signs of suicidal distress, how to talk about suicide, and ways to provide support.
- Support someone following a suicide attempt: Understand the reasons why someone might attempt suicide and the strong feelings you may experience.
- Look after yourself: Identify how your feelings may impact your own mental health and wellbeing in your support role, and strategies to prioritise self-care.

An Australian Government Initiative

Access Minds Together

[mindstogether.org.au/
supporting-someone-in-sa](https://mindstogether.org.au/supporting-someone-in-sa)